Normanda Jane Scott Huffman died peacefully at her home on North Main Street Tuesday morning, July 24, 2012. She was 93 years old. The daughter of Emmett Elmer Scott and Clara Ardena Reynard Scott, she was born June 11, 1919 in Elston, Missouri. Normanda had one sibling, a younger brother, Elmer Reynard Scott (deceased), who was born there as well. The family moved to Fort Myers, Florida, when she was three years old, and she grew up there and loved Fort Myers and Florida the rest of her life.

During World War II Normanda worked as social director of the Servicemen's Club, planning and organizing various activities for the enlisted men stationed at Fort Myers. It was at one of these functions that she met the love of her life, Edward Cortner Huffman. He was a great dancer and bridge player (important criteria as she loved to do both and did them well) and possessed many other positive attributes. They married June 1, 1944. Immediately after the war the young couple moved to Shelbyville and lived in the house at 734 North Main Street where Edward was born and raised. She lived in the same home until her death, as did he.

"Miss Normanda," as she was known to many, possessed many talents, but her priorities were her family, her faith, her friends, and service to her community. Always supportive of her husband during his long banking career, she was the consummate hostess and business partner. Possessing the gift of hospitality, they were a powerful team, and she was a large part of the growth and success of First National Bank in the community.

Normanda was a gifted planner, organizer, teacher and cook, and she put those talents to good use at home as well as at her beloved First Christian Church (Disciples of Christ). Her involvement with the Disciples of Christ did not stop at the local level. Her engaging smile, strong and winsome personality, and influence will be missed at the state and national level as well.

She never met anyone who was a stranger for long. A gifted conversationalist, Normanda drew everyone out because she was truly interested in others and wanted to know about their families and their interests, and she really listened and remembered what she was told. She loved to travel and to take pictures, and also took great pleasure in seeing the pictures of her friends. It took a long time to show them to her however, because she had a curious mind and asked lots of questions. Many will miss being able to share their pictures and experiences with her.

"Miss Normanda" was a true servant and loyal friend to many. She never ceased to help those in times of need, whether it meant driving friends to the doctor or fixing a delicious meal-she was there. She loved being involved with the Meals on Wheels program and looked forward to visiting those who were shut-in. Consequently, she deeply appreciated the outpouring of love and kindness from so many of you during her extended illness.

Predeceased by her husband Edward on January 15, 2011, she is survived by her three children, Sarah Ardena (Sally D.) Huffman Hunt of Chattanooga, Tennessee, Edward C. (Bucker) Huffman, Jr. and wife Rita Ann of Shelbyville, and Joshua E. (Josh) Huffman and wife Janice of Dallas, Texas, nine grandchildren and twenty-three great-grandchildren. She lived a wonderful and unselfish life. She was dearly loved and will be deeply missed.

Visitation will be held Sunday, July 29th from 4-7 pm at First Christian Church, and Celebration of Life will be Monday, July 30th at 11 am, also at First Christian Church, with burial to follow at Willow Mount Cemetery. He served in the National Guard and U.S. Army. He was always aware of the needs of others. He gave so willingly to those in need, whether it be to an individual or Churches he attended and never wanted to be recognized for his gestures. His wish would be to inspire others to do the same. Memorial service will be 11 Am Saturday, November 24, 2012, at First United Methodist Church. Dr. Lloyd Doyle, Reverend David Adams, and Reverend Jon Bell will officiate.

Visitation will be 9 AM until service time Saturday.

Evelyn was born April 9, 1954, in Fayetteville, Tennessee, to Nola Gill McGee, of Fayetteville, and the late Reager McGee.

Evelyn Edwards grew up in Fayetteville, Tennessee. She graduated from the expanded function dental hygiene program in the School of Allied Health at Vanderbilt University in 1975. She has 38 years of experience in both private practice (13 years) and public health (25 years). Evelyn worked in the school-based dental sealant program in the South Central region.

Evelyn worked in public schools helping all children improve their oral health. She conducted a wide variety of preventive dental programs including application of dental sealants, oral health education, screening and referral programs, teacher in-service training, and community health fairs. During her 25 years of service to public health, she has educated tens of thousands of children, sealed countless amounts of teeth, and improved the overall health of two generations of Tennessee's children. Tennessee was the first state in the U.S. to have school-based sealant programs. Evelyn was the dental hygienist who placed sealants in some of the early programs in the 1970's. In 2008, Evelyn became a hygienist for Dr. James Clark, in Shelbyville, Tennessee.

Evelyn helped write Oral Health: A Guide for Tennessee Teachers, a teacher resource manual that was placed in all schools in Tennessee. She also co-authored and edited the Oral Health Services Section's Preventive Oral Health Guidelines, which serves as the reference for public health preventive dental programs in Tennessee. For several years, Evelyn served on a program committee for the Department of Health's annual Oral Health Conference. She served on a committee of dental public health professionals who developed an Internet website by authoring fact sheets for adults, activity sheets for children, and guidelines and information for dental professionals.

Evelyn served on a statewide committee to develop and implement an annual poster contest in which third and fourth grade students, throughout Tennessee, could promote the principles of good oral health through their artwork. The Smile! Tennessee poster contest was a great success and culminated in an awards ceremony each year in the State Capital.

In 2002, Evelyn received the Colgate National Community outreach Award from the American Dental Hygienists Association. This award was presented to her at their national meeting in California. She was selected as the recipient for her work in developing a smokeless tobacco program to use with middle and high school students in Tennessee schools.

The anitfluoridation issue has grown in Tennessee over the past several years. Evelyn has attended numerous local utility district meetings and prepared information on the benefit of community water fluoridation. In January 2006, Evelyn gave testimony at a Tennessee General Assembly legislative hearing regarding the public health benefits of community water fluoridation.

Evelyn has been a member of TPHA since 1978, having served on the registration, nominations, and bylaws committees. This year, she is chairing the poster session committee. In addition, she is a past chairperson and board representative from the Dental Section. Evelyn is past president of the Tennessee 2006 Dental Hygienist Association, and currently serves on their Board of Trustees. She received their Dental Health Educator of the Year Award in 2002, and again in 2005. Evelyn is also a member of the Tennessee Academy of Dental Hygiene, an organization which promotes continuing education and provides scholarship opportunities, and served as president of that organization. She was appointed, by the governor, to a three year term to the Board of Dentistry in March 2001, as one of two Dental Hygiene members.
