Loraine was born in Shelbyville, TN on March 27, 1947 to the late A. Glover Davis Jr. and Martha Martin Davis. She graduated from Bell Buckle High School in 1965. Loraine then went to Middle Tennessee State University and graduated with a B. S. Degree in Home Economics.

During her life Loraine used her degree to support her family, friends, and community. She started her career doing extension work for the University of Tennessee in Wayne County and then moved to Warren County to continue that work. In 1982 she moved back to Shelbyville and helped her parents expand the single greenhouse into a thriving greenhouse business that is still operational. As an active member of the community, Loraine was active in local 4-H activities, Tennessee Walking Horse shows, Relay for Life, Bedford Beautiful, the local Chamber of Commerce, past president and active board member of the Tennessee Flower Growers, Tennessee Horticulture Alliance, a board director of the PickTN Conference Board, Tennessee Certified Nursery Professional, a Master Gardner, and First United Methodist Church. She was sought after by many local clubs and organizations to speak about horticulture and flower arranging. She hosted many hands-on classes for people within the community.

Loraine had many varied interests. She was an avid fisherwoman who loved to fish in a pond, river, or ocean. She loved to show dairy cows and sponsored the Loraine Davis Foster Award. She was a wonderful cook and enjoyed doing crafts, especially needlework. Loraine's sense of adventure called her to explore many places in this world, and her outgoing personality drew many people to her. She loved animals, especially her cats.

Lorraine and James L. Sutton were married on July 30, 1981. He preceded her in death after 36 years of marriage. Lorraine is survived by a son Eric (Julia) Sutton, grandchildren, Alex (Willi) Culver and Bryce Sutton; her three brothers, Martin (Jo) Davis, Robert (Dulcie) Davis, and Richard (Kim) Davis. She also leaves behind nine nephews and nieces: Samuel Davis, Chere Quick, Julie Davis, Grant Davis, Joseph Davis, Craig (Kendra) Davis, Rebecca Davis, Danece Davis, and Josh Davis, seven great nephews and great nieces and four great-great nephews. She also leaves behind many beloved cousins and close friends.

Lorraine would be honored with donations to the local cancer society, Bedford County 4H, or Relay for Life.

Feldhaus Memorial Chapel is assisting the family during this time of loss.

“ Lorraine loved her work and approached it with God honoring zeal. She epitomizes for me the essence of servanthood. Ever helpful to others. Dawn and I will miss her. Our yard is a constant reminder of her enduring gifts and talents.

One day in March after a long warm spell we ran out there to get plants. She smiled and told us to come back in May.

“ I never met Mrs. Lorraine. yet felt like she was a dear friend. A friend of mine used to talk about Lorraine and her fabulous green house, and how much she loved going there. Never knowing what to get my friend for her birthday I called Lorraine one day explaining who i wanted to get a gift for, yet she didn't really like flowers or plants for the house she would kill. Lorraine asked if she could make a suggestion and I said please. She suggested a gift certificate so Ms Ann Hawkins could come in in the spring and pick out things for her gardens. I just spoke to Mrs Lorraine a couple weeks ago to place my order and she was so excited almost made one think she was the one getting the gift As she said how happy she was to get this to Ann. and looked forward to her coming in when Spring came and placing her order, Some how placing those orders won't be the same.

Ann & I often speak of when we get to Heaven sitting in a garden of beautiful flowers, while dangling out toes in a pretty brook. I guess God chose you to go first so you could find the perfect spot for us gals to share all God's blessing in a beautiful spot.
